

PRIVACY POLICY

Illustrative Voices strives to maintain the privacy of our employees, artist members, Board members, donors, and visitors to the organization's website. We may request personal information directly from donors, community members, or other supporters purchasing fundraising tickets or other organization commodities (including name, address, phone number and credit card information) via our website, by telephone, fax, or mail. This information is not shared or sold to any other organization, company, group or individuals, and is only used internally for processing donations, sales, generating acknowledgement letters and maintaining contact with our donors and other supporters.

Updated: July 2020